

August 04, 2015

MESSAGE

I am glad to know that the Odisha State Open University, Sambalpur is launching its official website shortly.

In the age of information revolution, a website is viewed as essential to provide/get information online easily and instantly. For educational institutions, website becomes a good pathway to reach out with their mission and vision. Odisha State Open University is a novel venture of the State Government towards equalizing educational opportunities. As an instrument of democratising education, the newly formed University has a lot to deliver and the website will definitely be an important tool in this regard.

I congratulate the University for developing a website for the benefit of seekers of knowledge. However, every care should be taken for regular updating the contents with useful information. I am sure the website would encapsulate the vision and mission of the University. I wish the Odisha State Open University to grow and meet its objectives.

(S. C. Jamir)